

Enrich Your University Career

Prepare Yourself for a Brilliant Future

How can a student enrich their time at college besides participating in school clubs and activities, making friends, and finding a part-time job? I am sharing three useful tips with you today that will help you prepare for the various challenges that you will face.

Embrace AI and develop multifaceted capabilities

As we embrace the advent of artificial intelligence, you must fall in love with the field and develop application skills in preparation for an inundation of technological advancements. In the unprecedented AI+ Center established through joint efforts by Chung Hua University and Microsoft, you can make the best use of the unique experience and opportunities to engage in real-time application and practice, preparing yourself with desirable professional excellence.

Have empathy for your institution and society

The rise of the Internet and social media has fundamentally transformed our mindsets. Today, modern schools aim to prepare their students with balanced training in a wide spectrum of disciplines for well-rounded professionals. Engagement in extracurricular activities further facilitates students' identity with their institution, leading to increased empathy and humanitarian concerns for society.

Participate in contests and competitions of any sort to boost your confidence

It goes without saying that enhancing your expertise is key to building confidence. One can also take advantage of various contests and competitions by befriending some top-notch rival peers. Not only might you look up to these peers, but they will also help you stay motivated, ultimately breathing spirit into your life.

I cordially welcome those looking to add zest to their youth to the warm community of Chung Hua University. Together, let us explore how you can benefit from an institution that develops preeminent leaders for the future.
